Novello's Editions of the Standard Sacred Works of the great masters have been so long before the public as to render any description of their merits as hand-books superfluous; but the fact of their having been selected by the Directors at each of the great Handel Festivals, may well be referred to with pride in proof of their extreme accuracy; and it will be seen that the publishers have spared neither expense nor trouble to identify these works with the Handel Festival, by printing, on each occasion, the miscellaneous selection on the second day in a book precisely as it is performed.

It is particularly requested that visitors be careful to order Novello's Editions; as, although others may be offered for sale outside the Palace, none that do not bear their name as publishers are authorized by the Directors.

BREAKFAST BEVERAGE.—Homœopathic practitioners, and the medical profession generally, recommend Cocoa as being the most healthful of all beverages. When the doctrine of homœopathy was first introduced into this country, there were to be obtained no preparations of cocoa either attractive to the taste or acceptable to the stomach: the nut was either supplied in the crude state, or so unskillfully manufactured as to obtain little notice. J. Epps, of London, Homœopathic Chemist, was induced, in the year 1839, to turn his attention to this subject, and at length succeeded, with the assistance of elaborate machinery, in being the first to produce an article pure in its composition, and so refined by the perfect trituration it receives in the process it passes through, as to be most acceptable to the delicate stomach. For general use Epps's Cocoa is distinguished as an invigorating, grateful breakfast beverage, with a delicious aroma. Dr. Hassali, in his work, "Food and its Adulterations," says:—"Cocoa contains a great variety of important nutritive principles—every ingredient necessary to the growth and sustenance of the body." Again: "As a nutritive, cocoa stands very much higher than either coffee or tea." Directions—Two tea-spoonfuls of the powder in a breakfast cup, filled up with boiling water or milk. Secured in tin-lined  $\frac{1}{2}$ lb.,  $\frac{3}{4}$ lb. and 1lb. labelled packets, and sold by grocers, confectioners, and chemists. Each packet is labelled "J. Epps, Homœopathic Chemist, 112, Great Russell-street; 170, Piccadilly; 48, Threadneedle-street: Manufactory, 398, Euston-road."
